DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 1-28 and cyclosporin A in the reply filed on 7/2/2007 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that applicant alleges that the examiner has not met his burden and states that the inventions are related products. This is not found persuasive since the examiner stated that the inventions were related as product and process of use in the restriction requirement mailed 5/18/2007 and applicant states that they are related as products which is simply not true since they were stated as noted above as product and process of use of that product and not as two products as applicant argues.

It is also noted that the examination is being limited to cyclosporin A since that is what applicant elected.

Thus claims 5-19, 21-27, 29-56 are withdrawn from further consideration as being drawn to non-elected inventions.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-4, 20, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, it is confusing how "having characteristics as shown in Figure 3 and an active molecule of formula 1" is clear in the claim. References to figures and formulas cannot be made within the context of the claim. Applicant cannot claim something which is in a formula or figure by referring to that figure or formula. The claim must be amended to incorporate the formula or figures content.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir.

Art Unit: 1655

1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1, 4, 20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory double patenting over claims 1, 15, 31 of U. S. Patent No. 7070814 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: the patent and the instant application are both claiming cumin (cuminum cyminum) together with cyclosporin A.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 20, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 335627 in combination with JP 402019321.

EP teaches that cyclosporine A is known to be used to treat diabetes and used in oral form, see col. 1, lines 10-30, col. 4, lines 1-10 and the examples.

JP teaches that Cumin (Cuminum cyminum) is used to treat diabetes, see abstract.

It is well known that it is prima facie obvious to combine two or more ingredients each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose in order to form a third composition which is useful for the same purpose. The idea for combining them flows logically from their having been used individually in the prior art. In re Sussman, 136 F.2d 715, 718, 58 USPQ 262, 264 (CCPA 1943); In re Pinten, 459 F.2d 1053, 173 USPQ 801 (CCPA 1972); In re Susi, 58 CCPA 1074, 1079-80; 440 F.2d 442, 445; 169 USPQ 423, 426 (1971); In re Crockett, 47 CCPA 1018, 1020-21; 279 F.2d 274, 276-277; 126 USPQ 186, 188 (1960).

The reason or motivation to modify a reference may often suggest what the inventor has done, but for a different purpose or to solve a different problem. It is not necessary that the prior art suggest the combination to achieve the same advantage or result discovered by applicant. While there must be motivation to make the claimed invention, there is no requirement that the prior art provide the same reason as the applicant to make the claimed invention.

Thus, to use the cumin and the cyclosporine A in the same composition would have been obvious since they were both well known at the time the invention was made to both be used individually in the art to treat diabetes. It is also noted that EP clearly teaches oral formulation thus making it obvious to use the composition yielded from the two components in oral form.

The adjustment of particular conventional working conditions (e.g., determining result effective amounts of the ingredients beneficially taught by the cited references, especially within the broad ratio/amounts instantly claimed), is deemed merely a matter of judicious selection and routine optimization which is well within the purview of the skilled artisan.

Accordingly, this type of modification would have been well within the purview of the skilled artisan and no more than an effort to optimize results.
